Our National Capital Happenings!

[Special correspondence DAILY NEWS.]

"The President", said a prominent Indiana republican whom I met coming out of the White House, "smiled in a peculiar manner as he assured me that the story of Secretary Blaine'e failing brain power was a cruel hoax, entirely without foundation; and I didn't wonder at the peculiar smile after I learned that at that very moment there was lying upon the President's desk an important and lengthy state paper dictated within forty-eight hours by Secretary Blaine and sent to Washington, which demonstrated as nothing else could that our great Secretary of State, in many respects the greatest we have ever had, still had his hand upon the lever which has so elevated the United States in the estimation of the rest of the world. To slightly paraphrase the language of President Lincoln in speaking of the charge of drinking made against Gen. Grant: If Mr. Blaine be suffering from softening of the brain it would be well if it were contageous and all our prominent men could catch it."

It has been positively stated within the last two or three days that the President would and would not appoint the new U. S. Circuit Judges before the assembling of Congress, but as neither statement was in any sense official the matter is just where it was before the President went away, so far as can be authoritively learned; but I have good reasons for believing that the sppointments are to be made very shortly. I know that the matter has been discussed at a conference between the President and Attorney-General Miller, and it is generally believed that the Attorney General favors making the appointments at once. There was a rumor several days ago that the President had said to a Virginia Congressional delegation, headed by Senator Barbour, that it was his intention to appoint several democrats, but the rumor is not credited by republicans who can see no good reason why a republican President should give even one democrat a place upon the bench of a United States Court.

Ex-Representative Owen, of Indiana, who is now here, is credited with being a shrewd political observer. He says of the President's recent tour: "No public man ever met with a more flattering reception or ever made more friends than he did through the line of his travels. There was not a mistake made by him and he grew in the estimation of the public wherever he went and through his speeches became better known to the country at large. He can no longer be called small by any one. He has proven that he is great enough for his position and that he is possessed of those social qualities which are looked for in a man in his position. Men who once had doubts as to his future no longer hold them He is certain to be renominated. Blaine will not oppose him and when he convention meets it will be found practically unanimous for him. I think the democrats will nominate Cleveland. It will be the old fight—Harrison against Cleveland. The third party movement, if it be sanctioned by the Farmer's Alliance, will put an element of uncertainty into the campaign for both parties, but Harrison has grown in strength wonderfully.

Hon. John W. Foster, whose recent success in negotiating the reciprocity trade agreement with Spain is fresh in the public mind, has, it is understood, been asked to take charge of all of the reciprocity negotiations now pending before the State department, in case Mr. Blaine shall decide to take a long rest before returning to the duties of his position, and it is probable that if he returns Mr. Foster will assist him for a time, in order to lighten his labors, which for many months have been entirely too hard for one man.

Secretary Foster spiked a good many democratic guns when he announced that there would not be the slightest difficulty in meeting the quarterly pension payments due in June. This is a sad blow for the calamity wailers who have been predicting a Treasury collapse. Not only will the pension payments be promptly made, but the Treasury will besides have money to spare for any exigency that may arise. One has only to talk to Secretary Foster five minutes to be convinced that the wonderful "deficit" which has been given so much space by democratic newspapers is only an imaginary bugaboo that will never materialize as long as republicans control the finances of the country.

If the Cincinnati third party has not made any better impression anywhere else then it has here it will amount to very little. The party is judged, wether right or wrong I cannot say, by some of the men's character's it has put prominently forward as members of its national committee, and for that reason it is looked upon at being for sale to the highest bidder. The Alliance leaders will not, it is thought here, consort with these men of shady reputations.

Lincoln Continues to Shoot.

Youths Companion.

When Presideut Lincoln was a captain of Militia in the Black Hawk War, he had to wear a wooden sword a whole day. Orders had been given forbidding all firing within or near the camp. Captain Lincoln went out and fired his pistols too near the camp. The colonel punished him.

During the Civil War an order was issued forbidding the discharge of firearms within the limits of Washington. All sorts of magazine and breech-loading rifles had been sent to the White House for the President's inspection. He had studied them, and one afternoon he said to Mr. Stoddard, one of his private secretaries:

"They say you're a pretty good marksman. At 6 o'clock to morrow morning we'll go out on the mail and try some of these guns."

In the morning the President said to his Secretary, who tells the story in his book, "Inside the White House." "You take that thing and I'll take this, and we'll go right along."

"That thing" was an old Springfield musket, filled with a cartridge chamber that went on and came off with a screw twist. Mr Lincoln selected the Spencer rifle. The Secretary fired and made a good shot, though the Springfield kicked him. President Lincoln crouched, that he might hold his Spencer with an elbow resting on his knee, and squinted along the blue barrel.

A short sergeant and four or five men on guard duty, hearing the firing, had run up to the two marksmen.

"Stop that firing! Stop that firing! exclaimed the sergeant.

Bang went the rifle, and the President's tall, guant form shot up to its height. He smiled upon the shooting sergeant, who recognizing him, stood still and was silent. Then the squad, without uttering a word, executed a right about face, and with a double quick, raced to the guard house.

"Well, they might have stayed and seen the shooting," said the President, with a laugh.

THE Cincinnati convention may certainly be truthfully spoken of as a howling success.

Weather for June

Rev. Irl R. Hicks' Prognostications for Next Month.

The opening days of June will be warm with reactionary rains and storms. After an intermission of pleasant, cooler days and nights, about the 6th it will grow oppressively warm, and very active storm indications will begin to appear to the west. On and next to the 7th. 8th, and 9th, a series of active, violent disturbances may certainly be expected. These disturbances are apt to be prolonged beyond the normal time by the fact that the equinox of Mercury fails on the 12th that of Venus on the 17th, with moon's first quater on the 14th,—all of these added to the fact that the June solstice reaches its electric crisis about this time. The best outlook for heavy rains during the whole summer is during this, and the storm period next following. Among the results naturally to be looked for will be many startling, grand displays of lightniug, downbours of rain—frequent and heavy hailstorms, with phenomenal drops of the mercury from hot to cool, aud earthquake shocks in different parts of the globe. Careful observers will detect a natural tendency of clouds and air currents to whirl suddenly backward from the east, precipitating drenching downpours of rain and hail upon localities which they have apparently passed. Watch and see.

The 19th is the central day of the next regular storm period. Within 48 hours of 6 p.m. on the 16th, before and after, a very warm wave followed by heavy storm disturbances will pass over the continent from west to east. About the evening of the 22d, an unusually cool wave will be announced for central parts of the country which will spread later to the Atlantic, and abide in cooler, fresher atmosphere until displaced by warmer days and reactionary storms on the 25th and 26th.

Pleasant days and nights will succeed up to about the last day of June, when the temperature will again begin to grow hot and oppressive, and storm forces will begin to show in the west, which are sure to sweep eastward during the 1st and 2nd of July. During the month of June there are reasons to expect dangerous storm developments at some of the large figure dates of the calendar. Fix it in your minds that you will watch all gathering storm clouds on and about these dates. At the date of this writing the "MINIMUM OF RAINFALL," of which we have constantly and earnestly warned our readers for years, is beginning seriously to make itself felt. If this state of things is not reversed as we pass the June solstice, the drought now confronting us will confirm our worst fears.

Of Interest to Deer Hunters

The Renovo News in referring to the dismissal of the case against the deer hunters from Lock Haven by Justice Wentzel says: After examining the laws on the subject the justice concluded that the Act of Assembly of 1881 repealed the special act of 1873, which allowed deer hunting with dogs in Clinton and other counties in certain seasons. An act of 1878 protected the act of 1873 by a clause permitting hunting with dogs in counties where it had been allowed by special acts, but the justice contends that the act of 1881 repealed the special act because it expressly and intentionally omitted such a provision. This view was concurred in by W.C.Hollahan, Esq., who was requested by the justice to overlook the proceeding. In view of this claim, the justice would have held the men had there been any evidence to show that they were the parties who owned the dogs that were seen on the mountains by Enos Moyer, but he failed to recognize them.

Ex-District Attorney Brown, who had charge of the case of the defendants, claims the special act of 1873 is still in force and that the men could not have been held under any just justice for court.

Still Progressing.

Very little was done at the fourth of July celebration meeting held in the court house on Friday evening at which General Hastings was present. The finance committee reported money still being collected. The committee on invitations reported the same had already been sent out. The committee on industrial parade reported the following as having signified their willingness to join in the procession:

Joseph Bros., Schaeffer, the photographer; Centre Democrat, Will Brachbill, Beezer's meat market, Bunnell & Aikens, Frank Naginey, Clayt Brown, Wm. Shirk, Garman's Store, H. A. McKee & Bro., W. T. Twitmire, Nail Works, Jenkins & Lingle, Swartz & Dubbs and Hoover & Miller. In addition the committee feels positive of being able to secure this many more.

It has also been decided to invite Col. Burchfield, of the Fifth Regt., and his staff, and also the Wheelman's Club, of Philipsburg. Hereafter the work will be done principally by the several committees. Large posters will soon be printed and sent out and in a few days things will begin to assume a more material shape.

IT is humiliating, but never the less true that more real interest is being taken in the coming World's Fair by foreign nations than by many of the States of the American Union. Why is this? Put this question to a dozen men and you will probably receive as many answers, and none of them will be satisfactory. We think the principal cause of this seeming indifference—we cannot believe that the intelligent people of the neglectful States are really indifferent towards such an important and patriotic project—is the mistaken idea that there is still plenty of time, the Fair not opening until 1893. But there is not plenty of time. Two years, even in energetic and "get there" America, is a very short time in which to get together and prepare for an effective exhibit the products of even the smallest States where the legislatures have, through badly mistaken ideas of economy—the same kind of economy that causes the merchant to withdraw his advertisement from the local paper—declined or neglected to make necessary appropriations for a proper exhibit, it will prove the best kind of an investment for the property owners to furnish the money for an exhibit—it will come back increased a hundred fold by reason of increased value.

TIME will show how sadly the democratic editors are wasting time and space in their frantic efforts to prove that there is a rivalry between the President and Mr. Blaine. There is no rivalry between the two men, and, we have it from sources of absolute reliability, that in the event of the name of either gentleman peing presented to the next republican National Convention, and one of them unquestionably will be, that he will be loyally supported by the other. Democrats should paste this in their hats.

Now that Kaiser Wilhelm has stated in a public speech that he hoped peace was "assured for the present and even for next year" it is well to be prepared for the beginning of war, as it is a habit with such people to mean precisely the opposite to what they say.

OH, CONSISTENCY!

Last week the mugwump editor of the Keystone Gazette had the brazen effrontery to come out in his unreliable sheet and charge the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN and DAILY NEWS with having flopped the party and now being issued as democratic in politics. The charge was made simply and solely because we dared to publish a criticism on the Gazette editor's record as a public official, a criticism both fair and just and one that he would have been quick to make public had any other than himself been the official.

And the effrontery of it! This same man who made the above charge has not drawn one long breath since he has attained his majority that has been straight out republican. And what has been the course of his paper? Always defending the mugwump side of everything and always (?) republican if there was boodle in it or any spoils to gobble. This man, who last fall supported only one republican candidate for county commissioner and fought only one democrat. This man who, after the disastrous defeat brought on the republican party principally through his style of work and the election of all democratic officials, goes to the latter and wants to cry quits for the personal abuse showered on them and wants to make up—for the boodle that's in it. This man who has quietly agreed to keep still and say nothing about anything if the democrats will divy the patronage with him. This man who seeks the confidence of the republican party, by hoodwinking them with the belief that he is true blue, turns around and barters that same confidence to his political opponents for the little bit of public patronage he can get. Yes, this is the man who last week came out and charged us with having turned democratic because we criticised his official career as postmaster of Bellefonte, a public servant and nothing more.

Several times within the past year has the Keystone Gazette so strayed out of the fold that it had to be helped back by a few of its friends. Several times has it been obliged to come out and apologize for articles appearing in its columns which reflected considerably on true republican principles. And yet, with the above record, it charges the REPUBLICAN and NEWS, the only republican papers in Centre county, with having gone estray. Happily, however, all charges emanating from that source have no weight and only serve to enlighten the people as to the true character of the writer. Hereafter all persons in Centre county desiring a straightout republican paper will be obliged to take the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN, as all others are either democratic or mugwump and of the two the latter is the worst, for the reason that it is not responsible for anything it says either way. Oh, consistency! thou art, etc.

A Good way to Keep Flowers.

There is nothing better than a common potato to keep flowers fresh. Cut one into halves and insert the stems into holes in them bored for the purpose. Then arrange them in a low basket or shallow dish and conceal the plebeian vegetable with leaves or moss. There is moisture enough in an average sized potato to sustain a flower for two weeks. Don't keep a potato bouquet in too warm a room, however. This is also an excellent method for mailing a flower bud. After it is inserted in the potato cotton should be put about it for support and the whole inclosed in a box with a slit for air.

THE Italian Goverment is trying to check the tide of immigration to this country of her sons. We sincerely trust that it may meet with success.

Ice Cream.

It is getting to be a serious thing nowadays to know one's ice cream by sight, says the New York Times, Taste, of course, will reveal the frozen dainty, but it takes on, under the hands of the novelty-seeking chefs so many different disguises that it is frequently very misleading. If, for instance, a dish of plumplooking mushrooms is placed before you, don't be sure that you are going to eat that succulent vegetable until you have tried one of the light-brown buttons. They are probably ice cream frozen in these little molds. The English brown-bread ice cream is common enough here now, but it is a novelty to have it served with French peas. A chef, who was more ambitious than artistic, recently almost started the company by sending to the table what were apparently raw lamb chops The illusion was so perfect that several hesitated to attempt to eat them until the hostess' fork showed there ice cream nature.

THE English are very much opposed to trade reciprocity between the United States and the South and Central American nations because it promises to deprive the English of a very profitable trade which they have had for some time, and perhaps that is the reason why the Mugwump papers, which are always ready to stand up for what will benefit England are trying to throw cold water on reciprocity agreements. But if we mistake not a great majority of the people of this country want the interests of America looked out for first of all, and that's the idea that the republican party has always believed in. America first; the rest of the world afterwards.

How To Make Chinese Cement

This cement will join porcelain, glass fancy work, jewelry, etc., so strongly that they will break anywhere else rather than where cemented. Take of finest pale orange shellac broken small, four ounces, strongest rectified spirits, three ounces, and digest them together in a warm place until dissolved. It should have about the consistency of molasses.

MANY years practice have given C. A Snow & Co., Solicitors of Patents, at Washington, D. C., unsurpassed success in obtaining patents for all classes of inventions. They make a specialty of rejected cases, and have secured the allowance of many patents that had been previously rejected. Their advertisement in another column will be of interest to inventors, patentees, manufacturers and all those who have anything to do with patents.

FROM all sections of this and foreign countries comes news of the distinguished scientists being engaged in perfecting flying machines; still if you are thinking of taking a journey it is just as well to purchase your ticket by the existing conveyances and not wait for the establishment of the aerial line.

IT is one of the signs of the times that such eminent democrats as Henry Watterson are advocating the adoption of the "straddle" tariff platform upon which Cleveland was elected in 1884, because of the impossibility of winning on Cleveland and Mills' outspoken free trade ideas.

PERU is the last country to cry for reciprocity with us, and she has a newly appointed minister at Washington authorized to ask for admission to the charmed circle of reciprocity.

THE Kentucky democrats do not appear to place any higher valuation on Watterson's advice than Gov. Hill, of New York, did upon a well-remembered occasion.

THE Prince of Wales is a grandpap. This is one style set by the idol of the American dudes that the aforesaid dudes for various and obvious reasons cannot readily adopt.

PAPER.

I am a fine example of modern man's ability
To comprehend the age's wants, and fill them with agility.
I'm made from rags discarded by respectable society,
From straw or wood or fibrous plant of every known variety.
The business man sends word by me whene'er your bill's collectable,
The lovers use me lavishly for billets-doux delectable.
Your grocer or your butcher wraps his wares utilitarian;
And as his boy delivers goods he winks at his own Mary Ann.
They put me up in every style, and every shade and quality,
To suit the staid, prosaic man, or fads of gay frivolity.
The world has come to know me, and I'm really indispensable
To every man and woman, the flighty and the sensible.
The news would be unpublished if 'twere not for my utility;
But pride does not become me, and I carry with humility
Dispatches from all parts of earth named in our school geography,
Impressed on my fair surface by the aid of good typography.
In fact, I am the medium of busy man's dexterity,
In gathering news and spreading it with wonderful celerity.

RATS.

BY MATTIE [illegible]ASLAND.

In a small, mea[illegible]nished room in the third story of a tenement building, Professor Carl Schwartz, teacher of German and French, as his modest sign on the outside door indicated, sat in a dejected attitude. One slim hand supported his blonde head; the abundant yellow curls shaded a face that was thin to attenuation, and everything around betokened extreme poverty.

"Mein Gott, giff helb," muttered the professor, "for I know not what to do! Pupils I can not get; food I must have. Ah, America, what has thou here for the poor German?"

As though in answer to his question there was a sharp, quick rap at the door. His handsome face flushed eagerly; he arose, and with the courtly grace of a Chesterfield, ushered in his visitors, a stately old man and two bright boys.

In ten short minutes from the time of their entrance the happy German found himself the proud possessor of two pupils, sons of a wealthy banker, with the promise of their father's influence to secure him more patrons.

There was one "schmall leetle cloud," as the poor professor mentally declared, in this sudden burst of sunlit sky.

"I will pay at the end of the first quarter," the banker had said, fixing what seemed a munificent sum, "as I make it a rule never to pay for a thing till I get it;" and Carl could only murmur, "Dot ish right."

The father departed, leaving his sons for their first lesson, and after it was over the professor fell to conversing about the dear "faderland," and his experience since coming to America. Among other things he mentioned the rats.

"Tis ish a goot room for tem, so many holes; ven I shleep tay run over me like rabbits; I likes not such bedfellows. Tay alway works at tere pishness——"

"Just like mechanics," interjected one of the boys.

"Mechanics—workingmans? Tay be better much; tay puts in full time—never go on shtrike."

"Are there no rats in Germany?" asked John, the elder brother.

"Yes; but tay take not such leeberties."

"America is the land of liberty even for rats," laughed Henry. "Whew! look at that big fellow going up the sink spout!" he continued in a whisper; for, sure enough, a fine specimen of the rodent tribe had whisked out into full view, soon disappearing again at sight of the boys.

"De poor brave rat!" mourned the professor. "He face death to get von leetle bit food. He must get it; so must I."

"There is no need of facing death in this country," said John lightly. "I wouldn't do it; I'd go hungry, or else live on bread and cheese."

"Why didn't we kill that fellow?" queried Henry. "We could have done it easily enough as he ran."

"Kill him? What for you kill him? He no mean harm."

"You are too good to your rats, professor; that is what makes them so tame and impudent. I'd finish them up in a jiffy. Just sprinkle some slices of bread with arsenic, spread them thickly with butter, and lay them at the holes."

"Butter, butter? I no eat butter mienself; shpeck juice, vill dat do?"

"Spike juice! Oh, you mean lard. Yes, that will do. But why don't you eat butter? I thought everybody liked it. I'll try you with a buttercup some day."

"Buttercup—cup butter? Tanks, very goot—so grateful."

"He thinks you are going to give him butter," whispered John. "He means a little flower," he added aloud.

"Ma fois; la rose, de leetle flower, die rose; oxcuse me," murmured the professor, confusedly mixing his French, German, and broken English together.

"Henry," said John, as they walked home together, "I like that man, and I believe he is actually hungry."

"So do I, and he seems such a gentleman. Let us ask cook to make up a a basket of goodies, and leave it at his door to-night. He can think it is a present from the rats."

"Agreed!" said John.

Accordingly, that evening the little dark entry outside the professor's door was graced with a basket fit for a king. After depositing it the boys crouched in the shadows and began making sounds that were very good imitations of the rats' squeals.

"He's coming," whispered John. "I hear him shuffling about getting into his clothes. He must have gone to bed early, in hopes of sleeping away his hunger. Now, once more!"

Together they set up a doleful wail, as though it came from the very depths of rat misery, winding up in the falsetto key.

"De poor leetle rat! It makes not me joy to hear such large sorrow. I vill heal the pains if I can. What means me this?" as he opened the door and his eyes fell upon the basket. "Compliments of a friendt," reading the card attached "Who is mein friendt? It not matter—Gott is mein friendt! Dot ish so nice, so cool," he continued, peering beneath the cover. "But de rats, de poor, little sorrowful rats, have gone away, I can not share my joy mit dem; von leetle bite might shtop de pains."

The boys waited to see the door close behind the happy professor and the big basket, and then started for home, having enjoyed their fun.

The next day they brought a trap, a wire cage with a drop door, showed their teacher how to bait it, and placed it in a corner. Upon coming to receive their third lesson, the trap contained a very comfortable looking captive.

"Caught one!" exclaimed both boys. "But why don't you kill it?"

"Kill von poor leetle animal, so nice, and so pretty——"

"Well, if he hasn't been feeding it?" interrupted John.

"Only von leetle bit bread and cheese. I keep it a captive von shmall while, den let it go to tell de oder rats how dreatful it is to be taken in a trap."

"Not so very dreadful to be housed and fed like this, is it, you old gray sinner?" said Henry, poking at the rat through the wires with a small stick.

The animal uttered several sharp squeals and almost immediately another one, a large, powerful looking fellow, ran out from the wall, seized the stick in his teeth, and snapped it in two. He then caught the cage and actually dragged it, with its occupant, to the hole, and gave it two or three quick jerks in his efforts to get it through.

"Well done, my brave fellow!" said Henry, clapping his hands.

"A rat with such a champion deserves its freedom," declared John.

The professor said not a word, but stepping forward raised the trap door, and the slim gray tail soon twinkled out of sight.

"I say, Henry, let us not be outdone by a rat," said John, as they walked home together. "It risked its life for a friend. Our poor friend, the professor, needs a little help. Father is too good a business man to pay him a cent till he has earned it, but we can spare him our pocket money for the next three months."

"That we can!"

"He can live nicely upon it till he earns his salary."

So it was quietly arranged. Not much of a sacrifice you will say, the loss of pocket money for three months; but just such little things make up the sum of a life that is worth living.

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIAL.

Illinois has frog farms.

Galveston wants a sugar refinery.

Western lumber dealers have organized.

Labor agitation is unusually active in Chicago.

Germany sends canned asparagus to this country.

A $150,000 cotton mill is reported as to be erected at Hillsboro, N. C.

The erection of a cotton mill at Tullahoma, Tenn., is proposed.

A $500,000 cotton mill is reported as to be built at Tallapoosa, Ga.

A carpet factory is reported as to be established at Abingdon, Va.

The Operative Painters' Union of New York was organized in 1842.

A new lace manufacturing establishment is to be started on Long Island.

It is stated that the Waitman's glove factory will be established at Charleston, W. Va.

The British government is giving 8,000 Irishmen work at $1.75 a week, payable in money or meals.

Eastern parties have made a proposition to erect a $200,000 boot and shoe factory at Abiline, Tex.

It is stated that A. J. Patterson will erect a cotton mill at Morristown, Tenn. The capital stock is $90,000.

An English cable construction company has offered the Dominion government to lay a submarine cable connecting Sable Island with Nova Scotia and operate it for 10 years for an annual subsidy of $12,000 a year, the cable to become the property of the government at the expiration of the 10 years.

According to an account from Milan, the National Bank of Italy is actively interested in the organization of an Italian steamship company for East Africa. The capital of the company is to be 20,000,000 francs (about $4,000,000), and its immediate object will be to connect the Somali and Zanzibar coasts by a line of Italian steamers, so as to be independent of English enterprise.

He Was One of the One.

An African traveler was recounting to a company his hairbreadth escapes in the jungles and savannas about the great equatorial lake region. He had encountered there, he said, the most savage and bloodthirsty race of men in the world.

"As we were marching," the traveler related, "from Nmgosji to Gohangbo we suddenly found ourselves in the midst of a most terrible and desperate combat. And what odds! Ten to one!"

"Were you one of the ten?" asked a bystander.

"Sir," said the explorer, grandiloquently, "I wish you to understand that I was one of the one!"

Absentminded Maine Women.

An absentminded woman in this town started down street the other day and slipped and fell flat. In recovering herself she got turned around and started back home. She is a cousin to a woman who started to prepare the evening meal recently, when she sneezed, and upon recovering thought she was "doing up" the supper dishes. She put everything away nicely and sat down for a quiet evening.—[Fairfield Journal.

RAIN TO ORDER.

Theory on Which a Congressional Appropriation Is Based.

That heavy cannonading produces rain is a belief which has been slowly growing out of unscientific obsevations and confused recollections of the state of the weather before, during, and after battles. Among soldiers there is a general impression that the floodgates of the heavens were opened shortly after each engagement in which they took part, and from them the idea has spread that the roar of guns shakes the atmosphere and precipitates the water in it.

Of late men of scientific training have come to attach some importance to this belief, and Congress was induced to appropriate $2,000 for making experiments under the direction of the Department of Agriculture. This was done largely at the instigation of Senator Charles Farwell, of Illinois, who was greatly impressed by a book published by Edward Powers, a civil engineer of Delavan, Wis.

In this little volume, entitled, "War and the Weather," Mr. Powers has gathered such data as were accessible in current histories. They are by no means complete, the atmospheric conditions being mentioned by the writers of accounts of battles only casually and with no thought of their scientific value. The records on the logbooks of gunboats and warships engaged in the late rebellion furnish valuable material, but even this is too fragmentary to be conclusive. The facts brought together form, however, strong presumptive evidence that rain does, as a rule, follow extensive gunpowder explosions.

Rain fell early on the day after the first Bull Run, in July, 1861, and the engagements in West Virginia during the same month, by which McClellan made the reputation which secured him the command of the army of the Potomac, were all followed by violent downpours. The peninsular campaign in the following year, which ended with the battle of Malvern Hill, was a succession of cannonading and of rain. The second Bull Run, Chantilly, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, and the Wilderness engagements were all followed by rain, as were likewise the great conflicts in the West and the bombardments along the coast.

That it did rain after each battle is, of course, not proof positive that the firing brought on the rain; but it decidedly lends color to the theory that the two had some connection. The proof would be stronger did we know in each case what the condition of the atmosphere was before the firing began or what were the chances under ordinary circumstances of rain falling. The days on which the battles were begun seem to have been bright and clear, but although the weather has a tendency to perpetuate itself—the probabilities of its being on one day what it was the day before being stronger than that it will be different—it does not follow that the change to rain would not have come anyhow.

If Mr. Powers's statments about the weather prevailing at some of the battles of our war with Mexico are correct, that war furnishes, perhaps, the strongest evidence in favor of his theory. He says that for months before the battle of Buena Vista, and for months thereafter, no rain fell in that region, it being the dry season, while showers were notable all through the second and last day's fighting. At Monterey the cannonading was carried on during a dry month and was followed by rain also, as were several other engagements at the same period of the year. Here, if the facts are as stated, no rain was expected for a long period thereafter, but rain came directly after artillery reverberations had ceased.

The theory that rain can be made to fall by exploding gunpowder in large quantities rests to some extent on Professor Maury's conclusion that the principal portion of the aqueous vapor falling in the United States is brought by atmospheric currents from the Pacific Ocean. In a petition presented to Congress some time ago for an appropriation to defray the cost of experiments Mr. Powers says that "it is contended that the great southeast trade wind of the Pacific, which meets the northeast trade wind near the equator, after rising there, flows over that trade wind to the belt of calms near the Tropic of Cancer, where it descends and becomes a great southwest rain bearing current above the United States, extending from the surface of the ocean, it is supposed, to a height of about three miles." This current, it is argued, blows over the Pacific for about 2,000 miles and takes up enough water in the form of vapor during the year to depress the whole surface of the ocean 8 or 10 feet. Some of it falls back into the ocean, but the bulk of it is supposed to be carried over the continent, to the Atlantic, to northern Europe, and the Polar regions.

This view was confirmed by the observations of the United States Signal Service to this extent that nearly all the great storms come from the west or the southwest. Balloonists likewise are agreed that there is a constant current running to the east over this continent.

It follows from this that if there is anything in the belief that cannonading causes rain the rain must fall either from directly overhead or to the east of the place of firing, and never to the west. On this point nothing is, however, definitely known. Rain is of course the result of condensation. The vapor will continue to float in the air until it meets a colder stratum, when it is forced together into drops that are too heavy to be held in suspension, and then they fall to the ground.

How artillery firing is to produce the cold necessary to condense the watery vapor into rain is not so clear. Suppose, however, that above the warm equatorial current charged with moisture from the Pacific Ocean there is a cold current flowing from the North Pole. Then, if the lower current can be so agitated by concussion that it will mount up into the upper current, where it will be refrigerated and condensed, the whole phenomenon is understood. But the existence of the polar current is an assumption, pure and simple, and its existence can not be proved. As a hypothesis it may be worth accepting and experimenting on if artificial rain production is desirable.

Mr. Powers figures that the two first experiments will cost, even with the guns obtainable for nothing, $800,000, while subsequent experiments will cost $20,000 each. The sum appropriated by Congress is therefore ridiculously small, and little can be expected from its expenditure. If rain is worth having to order at all, it is worth more than this. But the trouble is, there is no guarantee at all that the rain will come, no matter how much money be spent.

Clumsy Fingers.

"It is of no use my trying to sew," said a girl in her late teens; "I am so clumsy with a needle. My stitches are an inch long! Mamma does my mending. She says when I do it myself my things look so that she is ashamed to let me wear them."

But if the mother were less self sacrificing it is probable that a few hours' practice under her direction would easily reduce those clumsy stitches to a respectably small fraction of an inch in length.

Another young lady admitted the other day, with a laugh, that she always darned her stockings by drawing the edges of the holes together with the thread, because weaving it in and out as her mother did took so much more time and care.

Girls of this sort belong to the untrained or lazy class. But the careless are quite as common, and perhaps more exasperating.

"Oh, I'm very sorry; but you know I always was a butter fingers," explains calmly the dreamy young person who spills gravy in a lady's lap at dinner, because she is passing the gravy boat with her mind on the last chapter of a story, and does not notice that she is tipping it.

Presently she helps to butter, with the same vague expression in her eyes, and sends the bit, which she attempts to cut from the hard pat without looking at it, flying across the table.

"Did it spot your dress?" she asks her sister; "I hope not; but of course I could not help its flying off. I'm very sorry." But the trouble is precisely that she is not very sorry; at least, not sorry enough to prevent the same thing from happening again.

It is worth while to remember that there is such a thing as being stupid with one's fingers. There should be direct communication between the hand and the brain; but some people, with otherwise excellent brains, do not seem to realize this fact, and allow their hands a kind of helpless liberty, which works disaster among bric-a-brac, and makes many simple tasks absurdly formidable.

William II Rambles in Disguise.

People who imagine that his imperial majesty passes all his time in christening new born sons, meditating on the wickedness of Prince Bismarck, and quarreling with Count von Waldersee are very much mistaken. He likes his fun also and takes it. There is a certain music hall in Berlin where the emperor enjoys adventures worthy of the Caliph Haroun Al Raschid. Whether he is recognized or not I can not say, as his majesty is an adept in the art of "making up." However, policemen, detectives, and others are far too wise to express suspicions in case they have some idea they are in the presence of the Lord of Germany. It is confidentially said that the other day, in the guise of a Hebrew peddler, his majesty wandered through the haunts of the Jewish community in his capital and discussed with a number of working Israelites the condition of their race in his own dominions and the effect of the harsh measures recently promulgated against them in Russia.

On another occasion the emperor is said to have passed many hours of the night wandering among the saloons used by sailors and common soldiers, arguing and inviting criticism on the life of a private in his army or an A. B. seaman in his navy. All these things doubtless assist the young sovereign in his endeavors to act as the father of his people; but occasionally the fact that he is a young man bursts upon him, and he is apt to join in vigorous dancing and play high jinks generally as enthusiastically as the latest Jack ashore. Then, in the middle of a can-can or schoppen, comes the memory, "Ich bin der Kaiser," and his temporary boon companions are surprised to see their new comrade suddenly draw himself up, turn on his heel, and leave the place, followed by a couple of, till that moment, supposed to be drunken chums.

A Memory of Grant.

"It was along in 1861," said Mr. Will Clark, of Edmund Place, "that I was living in Dubuque, Ia., engaged in the sewing machine business. I wanted someone to represent us in Galena, and was directed to the firm of Grant and Perkins and went over to see them. The father of the general was the head of the firm and Orville and U. S. Grant were clerking for him. I stated my business and they were willing to try it. U. S. was sitting by the stove. He wore a rough suit and a slouch hat. I was introduced to him by Orville, and he said he thought they could sell some heavy machines for leather work. I thought him more interesting in conversation than the others. He had seen something of the world then and was out of his place. At the close of the war his friends furnished a house for him in Galena and gave it to him. I was very glad to contribute one of our best machines. I never lost my first impression of the simple honesty of the man's character. After events justified me when, in his old age, he went in the night to give up his property, a victim to the duplicity of those who had betrayed him."

The Pleasant "Earthy Smell."

The agreeable odor of the soil, the "earthy smell," has been traced by M. Berthelot, the distinguished French chemist, to a minute trace of camphorated body. He also concludes that the occasional presence of alcohol is due to exceptional cases of spontaneous fermentation of vegetable matter.

Should the Earth Stop It Would Melt.

Mayer has calculated that if the motion of the earth were suddenly arrested the temperature produced would be sufficient to melt and even volatilize it.

ART AND ARTISTS.

Thirty thousand dollars will be spent at Trieste on a monument to Dante.

Verestchagin was 30 years painting the 120 pictures of his famous collection.

Alexander Harrison's "La Vague" has been sold to the Philadelphia Academy for $8,000.

The American painters in Paris will send their works in a body to the Berlin Exhibition and have a section to themselves.

Meissonier is to have a statue, but he will in a sense pay for it himself, as the money is to be raised by an exhibition of his works.

The Art Club of Philadelphia is suffering from popularity and will have to spend $25,000 at once in order to provide space for its members and guests.

Hampton, N. H., has voted to erect a monument to the memory of General Henry Dearborn of the Revolutionary war, who was born in that town in 1751.

Verestchagin's pictures, after leaving New York, will be taken to Chicago, where in all probability they will form a portion of the Russian department at the World's Fair.

Professor Halsey C. Ives, who has been selected to manage the art department of the World's Fair, has been connected with Washington University School of Fine Arts for 17 years.

M. Munkacsy has received a commission for a large picture for the chamber of deputies in the new parliament palace at Buda-Pesth. The sum voted to the artist is said to be equal to $40,000.

A "Gallery for British Art," or a sort of London "Luxembourg," is to be built at South Kensington, opposite the museum, to cost £80,000, the gift of an annonymous donor to the British government. He has since been revealed in the person of a prominent sugar refiner, Henry Tate.

The principal picture galleries of Europe are ranked according to the number of pictures they contain: 1, Versailles; 2, Dresden; 3, Madrid; 4, Louvre; 5, London; 6, St. Petersburg; 7, Berlin; 8, Vienna; 9, Munich; 10, Florence; 11, Naples; 12, Venice; 13, Antwerp; 14, Turin.

On the monument over the grave of the famous Davy Crockett of Tennessee, who, among other wonderful things, killed 108 bears, the emblematic bear is to have a conspicuous place. But we do not see that any arrangement has been made for the historic coon, which gracefully came down from the tree when Colonel Davy appeared, without waiting for him to use ammunition on a shot.—[Cincinnati Commercial.

The statue of the late Henry Ward Beecher, on which the sculptor, J. Q. A. Ward, has been working more than a year, is nearly completed, and the Beecher statue committee of Brooklyn has arranged to have the monument unveiled Wednesday, June 24, in City Hall Park, a small triangular inclosure facing the City Hall at Court and Fulton streets. The monument is finished, except the bronze casting of two of the four auxiliary figures. The pedestal is finished. More than $35,000 have been raised for the monument. The occasion of the unveiling will be the seventy-eighth anniversary of Mr. Beecher's birth.—[New York Times.

John Deery, an attorney and art connoisseur of Dubuque, Iowa, has just come into possession of a remarkable picture, which was taken from the ruins of an old Spanish mission near Santa Fe, N. M. It is painted on wood and is believed to be a work by one of the great masters. It is evidently intended for one of the 12 stations of the cross, and represents Christ bowed down with his heavy burden, while St. Veronica has just wiped his face with a handkerchief, leaving a faint impression upon it of the face of Jesus. It is a remarkably well executed painting and contains over 50 figures. The size of the picture is 5 by 3 feet. It is attracting great attention.

Decoration Day

"Speak lowly, with soft foot-steps tread,
A nation's dust, a nation's dead,
Is calmly sleeping here."

Another Decoration Day anniversary will occur the 30th of this month and it is to be hoped that it will be observed more carefully than ever before, since many more mounds are to be found in every cemetery that mark a soldier's grave, than were there last year. Hero after hero has fallen until the last general officer of the army and admiral of the navy have passed away · hundreds of soldiers and sailors have dropped from the depleted ranks of those who were the nation's defenders in the trying hours of the rebellion. A few more brief years, and the sons and daughters of veterans will perform the ceremony of honoring the patriotic dead with wreaths of laurel and flowers. No custom of the ancient was more beautiful than that of covering their dead with decorations and emblems of remembrance The immortelles that cover the last resting place of dear ones, speak in mute language of love immortal; and it is to be hoped that the greater the civilization of the world, the more sacred will the dead be cherished.

With the tomb of Grant beside the Hudson, Sherman on the shores of the Mississippi, Sheridan and Logan near the Potomac, surrounded by many thousands of comrades, every section will have an opportunity to manifest the reverence in which these illustrious names are held.—Ex.

La Grippe Again.

During the epidemic of La Grippe last season Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, proved to be the best remedy. Reports from the many who used it confirm this statement. They were not only quickly relieved, but the disease left no bad after results. We ask you to give this remedy a trial and we guarantee that you will be satisfied with the results, or the purchase price will be refunded. It has no equal in La Grippe, or any Throat, Chest or Lung Trouble. Trial bottles free at P. M. Parrish's Drug Store. Large bottles, 50c and $1.00.

That Dynamited Train.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., May 20.—The loss of life by the blowing up of a work train near here yesterday is now placed at 19. One more of the Italians died to-day. The number of injured is about the same as the number of dead. There was a quantity of dynamite on the train and it was accidentally exploded. The train was torn to atoms, the railway tracks ripped from there bed, and a great hole many feet deep dug out of the earth, totally blockading traffic on the railroad for many hours. The houses which line the bank for a mile or more on each side of the scene of the accident all suffered more or less. The hillside, with its heavy foliage, was scorched and blackened, and here and there huge limbs of trees were wrenched off as though by a lightning bolt. In Tarrytown scores of clocks stopped.

Speaking of woman's work, here is only a hint of the different things a woman housekeeper does in a year: She gets dinders 365 times, washes the dishes 1,095 times, gets the children ready for school twice a day for 180 days, gets the baby to sleep 1,460 times, and makes about 300 calls.

A new coeducational college is to be started at Lake Charles, the chief town of southwestern Louisiana, about 30 miles from the Texas border. The college is the result of home missionary work and Northern immigration cooperating with the Southern people in an endeavor to meet the great educational and religious needs of that wide region.

Miss Laura Parsons, superintendent of the training school for nurses at the Maryland University Hospital in Baltimore, is described as a modest, gentle little woman who has attained great prominence in her profession. She is said to be the only regular Nightingale nurse in America. She studied under Miss Nightingale at St. Thomas's Hospital, London. She was one of the nurses who went on Lord Wolseley's Egyptian expedition, and was decorated by the queen with the royal red cross.

Through the Weary Hours

Of many a night, made doubly long by its protracted agony, the rheumatic sufferer tosses to and fro on his sleepless couch, vainly praying for that rest which only comes dy fits and starts. His malady is one which ordinary medicines too often fail to relieve, but there is ample evidence to prove that the efficient blood depurent, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, affords the rheumatic a reliadle means of relief. Check the malady in its incipient stages, when the first premonitary twinges come on, with this agreeable medicine, and avoid years of torture. Whatever be the rational of active influence of the Bitters upon this malady, certain it is that no evidence relating to its effect is more direct and positive than that which relates to its action in case of rheumatism. Like all sterling remedies, however, it deserves a protracted, systematic trial, and should not be abandoned because not at once remedial. It is equally efficacious in dyspepsia, indigestion and kindred diseases.

The Men Bellefonte Needs.

We have some of them, we rejoice to say, but we need more of them. Men who will push their own business. Men who do something besides croak. Men who will rejoice to see their town more rich and happy. Men who will not tell a stranger that he is a fool to come here. Men who will invest in home property and home enterprise. Men who love their town unselfishly, as they love their country. Men who believe in their own town, and who can see its points. Public benefactors who will aid churches, libraries and hospitals. Men who will patronize home enterprises and buy goods of home manufacture. Well balanced men with the zeal and enthusiasm of southern or western boomers. Men who are bound to keep in the swim, and whose love of progress extends to their pocketbooks.

JOHNSTON—AIKEN.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING AT THE BRIDE'S HOME WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Promptly at five o'clock on Wednesday evening the marriage ceremony was celebrated which made Mr. George B. Johnston and Miss Lillie Aiken man and wife. The spacious parlors were very beautifully decorated and a large floral bell was arranged under which the ceremony took place. Promptly at the appointed hour Miss Effie Hamilton, of Tyrone, began playing Mendelsshon's wedding march and the bridal party marched in in the following order:

Mr. Charles Richards and Miss Emma Aiken, Mr. Hard P. Harris and Miss Eva Hoover, of Philipsburg. Then came the bride and groom. From the hall the bridal party passed through the library into the parlor and halted before the altar, arranged in the alcove of the room, and there, beneath the floral marriage bell, they were met by Rev. William Laurie, D. D., who at once proceeded to perform the beautiful ceremony, using the ring, which united them for life.

The bride looked extremely lovely in a dress of white faille and brocade trimmed with ostrich feathers. She wore a long white veil with ostrich tips and carried an ostrich plume fan. Miss Emma Aiken was attired in a gown of light pink crepe de chine trimmed with ribbons to match. Miss Hoover was attired in a light green gown of crepe de chine trimmed in lace and white roses. The groo as handsomely arrayed in a suit of the customary black. After the completion of the ceremony congratulations were tendered and choice refreshments served. The presents were exceedingly numerous and valuable. The happy couple departed on the evening train for a tour through eastern cities.

A Good War Record

Mr. James Fulton, of this place, can boast of having one of the best war records possible. He was a soldier in the Mexican war having enlisted as a private in company D, 11th U. S. infantry on March 13th, 1847, when only 21 years of age. He was honorably discharged August 16th, 1848. In the late war of the rebellion he responded to the call for three months men, enlisting in company H, second regiment Pennsylvania infantry, on April 20th, 1861. Was discharged July 20th, 1861. Enlisted in company E, first Pennsylvania cavalry, on August 1st, 1861 and was discharged December 31, 1863. He then re-enlisted as a veteran in the same company and regiment on the day of his discharge—December 31st, 1863 and served until the close of the war, being finally discharged in July 1865, and he says he is now ready to again enlist in the service of the United States in her imbroglio with Italy, if he is needed. During his war service he was in many battles and saw lots of fighting and hard service. He was wounded in the battle of Bellplain Landing, Va., from which wound he now suffers, and for which he is drawing a small pension.

Catching Trout on Outlines.

For some time past it has been known that a lot of young men, and probably some older ones, have been catching trout on outlines. The authorities determine to put a stop to it and the matter was given some attention. On Monday morning warrants for the arrest of a couple parties were given to Constable Garis and by noon he had one of the parties, Will Walker, in the presence of the district attorney. Will was given a hearing and evidence was produced proving that Will had said he caught trout that way. When questioned the boy admitted he did but plead ignorance of the fact that it was against the law. This, however, would not excuse him, and the 'Squire said there were only two ways out, either to pay a fine of $25 or be held in $100 bail for his appearance at court. As Will could not pay the fine he gave bail. After his case was all fixed up Walker then made information against five others and warrants were at once sworn out for their arrest. One of the parties was arrested and his father went with him and paid the fine. Altogether nine warrants have been issued and five or six already arrested. Mr. Meyer says he intends putting a stop to the outline business if he arrests every man in Bellefonte in order to do it.

Lecture at Milesburg.

On Friday evening, May 29th, Rev. C. H. Fitzwilliam, of Tyrone, will deliver his celeprated lecture, "The Battle of Life," in the Baptist church at *M*ilesburg, The *M*ilesburg Cornet band will furnish the music. Admission, only 25 cents, and tickets can be secured at A. E. Cheesman's store in Milesburg, or at Stitzer's Book store, Bellefonte. Of Mr. Fitzwilliam the press says:

The lecture on "The Battle of Life," delivered by C. H. Fitzwilliam, was one of the most eloquent and thrilling ever delivered in this town, and on the temperance question we consider him the equal of John B. Gough.—Tyrone, Pa., Herald, October 22, 1889.

C. H. Fitzwilliam lectured in Walkill last Thursday evening to an appreciative audience. His subject, "The Battle of Life," was so ably handled that all who heard him were fairly captivated.—Walkill Times, December, 1886.

THE ENEMY IN AMBUSH.

Every one knows that at this season of the year disease lies in ambush, every ready to pounce and prey upon the weak. And any fair-minded physician will tell you that the only safeguard lies in keeping the system thoroughly keyed up by the use (not abuse) of a reliable stimulant. Hundreds of tonics are advertised for this purpose, but experience shows that a pure rye whiskey is the only one to be depended upon. Max Klein's "Silver Age" and "Duquesne" brands are sold under a sworn guarantee of absolute purity; an affidavit accompanies each bottle. "Silver Age" sells for $1.50 and "Duquesne" at $1.25 per full quart bottle. The difference in age makes the difference in price—both brands are warranted to be unadulterated.

You can get Guckenheimer, Finch, Gibson or Overholt from Mr. Klein at $1.00 per quart, or six quarts for $5.00. His stock of wines, brandies, gins, etc., is acknowledged to be the largest and choicest in the state. Goods shipped to all parts of the U. S. Send for catalogue and price list, mentioning this paper. MAX KLEIN, 82 Federal st. Allegheny, Pa.

Might Have Been Killed.

On Thursday afternoon Will Hunter was passing one of the large planers at the Phoenix planing mill when accidently his clothing was caught by one of the swiftly revolving pulleys. His left limb was drawn into the machinery and severely cut and bruised but, fortunately, Mr. J. C. Showers was standing near and he caught the young man and pulled him loose, otherwise it is just possible he would have been mangled to death.

The Negative Won.

On Friday evening quite a large crowd assembled in Boggs' Hall, to listen to a debate on the question "Resolved, That high license is a stepping stone to prohibition." The gentlemen spoke fifteen minutes each, the ladies spoke ten minutes each and then the gentlemen closed the debate with a five minute speech each. The Judges were Messrs. William Thomas, T. B. Cross and W. H. Musser. The decision was rendered in favor of the negative.

Drunkenness, or the Liquor Habit, Positively Cured by administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It is manufactured as a powder, which can be given in a glass of beer, a cup of coffee, or tea, or in food, without the knowledge of the patient. The Royal Gorge

Entirely unique is The Great Divide, the only journal of its kind in the world. The June number is made doubly attractive by its art supplement, a reproduction, in seven colors of the grandest bit of scenery in the Rocky *M*ountains, the far famed Royal Gorge. This journal is so original in its design and scope, so sparkling in its article, that any one interested in the natural, the romantic, the wild or the picturesque cannot fail to be interested and instructed by this unique paper. Brilliant short stories, beautiful poems, popular scientific articles and valuable and fascinating descriptive matter can always be found in The Great Divide. Its illustraitons are copious and executed in the highest style of art. The June number, together with the gem art supplement, "The Royal Gorge," which is alone worth more than a year's subscription and especially fitted for farming will be sent to any one addressing the publishers, Denver, Colo. enclosing ten cents.

State M eting of Red Men.

HARRISBURG, May 21.—At to-day's session of the state council Independent Order of Red Men, an appropriation of $2,800 was made to pay the per capita tax of the state council to the national body. A large number of appeals were heard, but all the decisions of the great sachem were sustained. Appropriate resolutions were adopted on the death of the past great sachems Dr. William *M*cClure, of New York, and W. J. Weaver, of Lancaster. A resolution was adopted in favor of Reading as the place for next year's meeting. It was decided to celebrate the Columbian anniversary in Philadelphia next year by a big parade of the order.

Remodeling Their Mill.

The mill of Geo. W. Jackson & Co. is now undergoing a course of repairs and remodeling. All the old machinery has been torn out and about a dozen workmen are busily engaged making the necessary alterations for the putting in of all new machinery. When completed the mill will be filled with the most modern of appliances and capable of turning out as good flour as can be made anywhere.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines.

Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom.

Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's.

Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."

Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers.

Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, has no other preparation ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

In Memoriam

Not often, if ever, has Snow Shoe been so thoroughly shocked, as on Monday afternoon, when the news of the sad and sudden death of Mrs. McMurray flew over this quiet little village. After an illness of only three days, and all that medical skill, and kind loving friends could suggest was done, but in vain. At half-past four, p. m. the grim relentless death messenger came with a summons, and the spirit of our dear friend stepped across the boundaries of time into the beautiful and mystic beyond.

Mrs. Mc*M*urray was beloved by everybody young and old. Her sudden death has cast a gloom over the entire neighborhood. *M*rs. Mc*M*urray was the daughter of Daniel and Margaret Weaver. Her mother died when Mrs. Mc*M*urray was very young. She was educated at Birmingham. Has for more than ten years been a member of the Bellefonte Presbyterian church. While very young she married Mr. Newton *Mc M*urray, of Burnside. A number of years of her life were spent in Nebraska. They finally came back to Pennsylvania, a short time before Mr. McMurray's death. Mrs. McMurray has been with Mrs. Nolan, at the Mountain House, for more than seven years, where she was always a general favorite. Being possessed of a bright and cheerful disposition, she cast sunshine on all with whom she came in contact. She had a kind word for everyone, was widely known and generally beloved. The entire community feel the loss severely. To one and all the guests of the hotel she was kindness itself. She was kind and generous to a fault. She leaves one son and daughter to mourn their loss. On Thursday morning after a brief but beautiful service at the Mt. House, the morning train carried all that was mortal of Mrs. McMurray to Bellefonte. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. O. Wright, of Milesburg, Rev. Cadle, of Snow Shoe and Rev. Houck, of the M. E. church of Bellefonte, in the Presbyterian church. The services were both beautiful and impressive. The pall bearers were the following gentlemen: *M*aj. John A. Wolfe and Dr. F. K. White, of Philipsburg; D. G. Stewart, of Pine Glenn; G. G. Rote, of Clarence, and Jno. *M*itchell and J. J. Nolan, of Snow Shoe. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. A large anchor from Mr. E. Austin, a handsome pillow from *M*r. Masters and G. G. Rote, a large cresent from Dr. White, another from Mrs. Pile and daughter, a broken wreath from *M*rs. and James Nolan, a large cross from the gentlemen boarders of the hotel. Cut flowers were sent in abundance. *M*rs. McCann, D. G. Stewart, Miss Hutchison, Mrs. Charles Pile, Mrs Clark and others sent cut flowers.

MARRIED.

BOTDORF—DOEBLER.—On May 22nd, at Rebersburg, by W. J. Carlin, J. P., Mr. George Botdorf and Miss Annie Doebler, both of Rebersburg.

HELD IN $10,000 BAIL EACH.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—The hearing of Francis W. Kennedy, president, and Henry H. Kennedy, cashier of the Spring Garden National bank, was concluded before Magistrate Wilhare yesterday. The defendants were arraigned on a charge of embezzlement, in taking funds on deposit when they knew the bank to be in an insolvent condition. Only two witnesses, Bank Examiner Drew and John B. Boyes, manager of the Clearing house, were examined and the magistrate held the two bankers in $10,000 bail each for their appearance at court.

How to Get Rested.

Wash your head, especially the back, in water just as hot as you can stand it. Take a sponge or towel, soak it in the hot water and put it on the back of your neck, holding your head down and letting the hot water run over it. Repeat this for four or five minutes and your face will look like a boiled lobster. Then take a dash of cold water, wipe yourself dry, lie down for fifteen minutes and you will feel like a new man or woman. Moreover—this is for the ladies—it's the best thing in the world to give you a clear complexion.

Paralyzed by Lightning

During the thunder storm last Wednesday evening, Miss Amelia Root, daughter of Mr. John Root, a farmer residing in Nittany Valley, was paralyzed by lightning, and remained in an unconscious condition until the next morning. The house was not struck by the lightning but Miss Root was affected almost as badly as though it had been. She has since fully recovered from the effects of the shock. None of the other inmates of the house felt any ill effects from the lightning.

Centre County Teachers' Examinations, 1891.

Miles—Rebersburg	Tuesday, "	16
Haines—Aaronsburg	Wednesda. "	17
Gregg—Spring Mills	Thursday, "	18
Centre Hall and Potter—Centre Hall	Friday. "	19
Walker—Hublersburg	Monday, "	22

Special examinations will be held at Spring Mills, Lemont, Howard, Unionville, Philipsburg and Bellefonte, Aug. 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 and 23 respectively; and at Bellefonte September 12 and 26. All examinations will begin at 9 a. m.

Applicants will be examined in all branches without regard to former marks.

By Sec. CC School Laws of Penna., candidates for certificates are required to be examined in that district in which they shall first apply for a school, or in which they expect to apply first.

A teacher without character is worse than no teacher. Applicants must present testimonials of character from the Board for which they last taught, or from that for which they expect to teach.

Directors will please be very careful in recommending. To refuse an improper person may offend that individual; but to recommend an unfit person will wrong a whole community.

Persons failing to qualify at the regular examinations may have a second trial at any of the specials.

Much of the work will be oral. Directors and citizens are invited to be present.

DANCING.

An article in a Bellefonte, Pa. paper, criticising the action of some Christians in attending a high-toned social gathering where dancing was the chief amusement, says it religion will not keep Christians from dancing, it is a complete fizzle. The religion of Jesus Christ will do all it claims to do. Will make of men noble characters, elevate humanity, send sunshine into dark places, cheer the broken-hearted, make life worth living and the world better by its influence upon mankind; but the religion of Christ will not keep people from dancing, will not frown upon social enjoyment, will not require young people to be old, will not turn sweetness into gall, will not deny amusement, cheerfulness nor happiness to God's people. It is not intended for that purpose. The religion of Christ teaches that we are placed here for a purpose. That purpose is not accomplished by the people who never smile, who see good in nothing, who make life a burden to everyone; but by the people who carry sunshine, enjoyment, smiles, good words and good works with them wherever they go. Religion does not antagonize refinement, and one Christian lady in a respectable dance will do more to uphold the principles of religion than a houseful of people who see no harm in indulging in simple, silly, childish kissing games, but would be horrified at the thought of dancing. Let people dance. Let them laugh, sing or do whatever their own common sense, or conscience tells them to do, as long as they do not conflict with other's peace, or violate God's commands. What would they do if Gabriel should summon them with their dancing garments on, asks this critic? They should be able to say "we are ready." A Christian life should be such that when summoned, whether from the dance or any other place, from pleasure or from labor, no matter where, there will be no need of a hasty change of garments. There is no time in the life of a Christian that he should be placed in such a position that the call from Heaven would find him unprepared, and he is no better prepared by an unnecessary self denial of respectable social enjoyments than by enjoying to the fullest extent the short life given him in this world. Give us Christians who, firm in their own convictions, will go ahead, and make the world better for their having been in it.—Philadelphia Public News.

NEWS OF THE ITATA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 24.—The first news about the Itata was received here yesterday. The Colima, which has just arrived from Panama and way ports, reports that she spoke both the Itata and the Charleston. The Itata was met at 10.52 on the morning of the 15th going south at full steam, sixty-five miles from Acapulco. At 5.20 p. m. the same day the Charleston asked the captain of the Colima if he had seen the Itata. He was answered in the affirmative, and then the United States steamer went straight on her way.

Pitcher's Castoria.
Children Cry for

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

The Golden Rod Wins.

The count of the vote cast by the school children in New York for their choice of a State flower has practically ended. So far the contest for supremacy between the golden rod and the rose has been won by the former. Superintendent Jasper said that out of 120,000 returns a majority of 11,000 votes were in favor of the golden rod. This shows pretty well the tendency of the vote. The votes taken so far show that the girls of the grammar schools were almost unanimous for the rose while the boys in the primary and grammar schools outnumbered them in their admiration for the golden rod.

The Way It Goes.

Says one advertiser: I placed a three line ad. in the DAILY NEWS one day, for a special line of goods for which there was no demand, and in three days I had not even a sample left.

Another man says: My business has more than doubled since I advertised in the DAILY NEWS.

Another one: I have made sales fifty miles from home through my advertisement in your paper. It is undoubtedly the best medium in Centre county.

Sequel: If you are in business advertise in this paper; it will help you.

SEVERAL pages of pictures in Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper this week are devoted to President Harrison's trip to California. The battle-field of Gettysburg and its monuments also require a page; a fashionable four-in-hand passing the Vanderbilt mansion in New York presents a remarkably attractive first-page picture, and another page is devoted to the adventures of the Leslie exploring party in Alaska. "The Millennium: An Impending Catastrophe," by Professor Totten, of Yale University, is the leading editorial in Frank Leslie's, and a startling one it is. Printed in English and German. Price ten cents.

Employs Only American Labor.

Mr. Samuel Mulberger, the boss at A. G. Morris' Armor Gap limestone quarry and kilns, has decided to hereafter employ only American labor. He thinks they give the best satisfaction throughout and are by far the cheapest in the end, therefore his decision to employ no foreigners. If all our industries in Centre county, when they are in full operation, would do this same thing it would be a blessing to the county and to the laborer, and a benefit to the employer.

Marsh May Return Voluntarily.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—Gideon W. Marsh, the fugitive president of the Keystone National bank, has not yet been arrested, but it is expected that in a very short time he will be again in custody by voluntary deliverance on his part. Mrs. Marsh, who is staying at the Highland house at Thurlow, says that her husband is near at hand and that, realizing the difficulties of getting out of the country, he will probably surrender within a few days.

Book for Advertisers.

Geo. P. Rowell & Co., of New York, publishers of the American Newspaper Directory and of Printers' Ink, a jonrnal for advertisers—the oldest and best known of all the advertising agencies—conduct their business in such a way as to make it a material benefit to both advertiser and newspaper publisher.

They furnish plans for an advertiser and prepare his advertisement. For their services—designing his advertisement and preparing his estimate—they make a sufficent charge to pay for the required service of persons competing to do the work well. They tell the advertiser what papers he should use and what the price will be. If the advertiser wishes them to place the advertisment in the papers, they do as he directs, and for that service the newspapers pay them. If the advertiser wishes to place his advertising through some other advertising agency, or to contract with the publishers he is at liberty to do so, and the estimate furnished by Messrs. Rowell & Co serves as a guide. It tells him where he is securing a bargain and where he is paying more than he ought.

Every one who is in need of information on the subject of advertising should obtain a copy of Geo. P. Rowell & Co's "Book for advertising," 368 pages, price one dollar. It is mailed, postage paid, on receipt of price, and contained a careful compilation from the American Newspaper Directory of all the best paper in the United States and Canada. gives It the circulation rating of every one and good deal of information about rates and other matters pertaining to the business of advertising.

Whoever has made himself acquainted with what may be learned from this book will admit that from its pages one may gather pretty much all the information that is needed to perfect an intelligent plan of advertising. It is not a complete newspaper directory. It is much better; for although it names barely one-third of the newspapers published it does enumerate every one of the best and all that a general advertiser is likely to have occasion to use.

Among the papers named in it the DAILY NEWS occupies the position to which its merits entitle it.

A Good Snake Story.

Snake stories as a rule are regarded with suspicion, but the following from a well known St. Agustine gentleman is vouched for as literally correct: He says, in the lower end of Clearfield township, Cambria county, near the Devil's Den, there resides a farmer and his family who were unable to get out of the house for three days. The house and barn were completely surrounded with rattle snakes, and the hissing and rattling continuously kept up by them resembled a furious wind and thunder storm. Finally, the snakes scampered off, and the farmer congratulated himself upon his happy deliverance. He then went in pursuit of his farm labors. He had a ten-acre field of ground plowed for corn, and when ready to put in the seed the snakes again put in their appearance and drove him off. He says there were thousands of snakes, some of them huge monsters, fully twenty feet long; that they would coil themselves into immense pyramids, and then jump in all directions. They remained there until dusk and then disappeared, climbing a rocky, precipitous mountain and going out of sight. The gentleman gives it as his opinion, that the raging forest fires drove the snakes from their usual haunts.—Johnstown Tribune.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease 'Consumption,' is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing and may prove a b essing, will please address REV. EDWARD A. WILTON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

Struck by Paralysis.

A young man by the name of Spiker, a student of the Normal, in this city, received a stroke of paralysis on Saturday while walking the street. Both arms were made helpless. He received medical attention and seemed to get somewhat better. He has been taken to his home in Penn's valley, Centre county.

A Misguided Class of Men.

The following classes of men are of no benefit to a town: Those who oppose improvements; those who go out of town to do their trading; those who prefer a quiet town to an active one; those who run down their own town to strangers; those who think business can be done quietly without advertising; those who mistrust puplic-spirited men; those who show no hospitality to any one; those who dislike to see others make money; those who oppose every movement that did not originate with themselves; those who put on a long face when a stranger talks of locating in a town; those who oppose every public enterprise which does not appear to be of personal interest to themselves; those who seek to injure the credit of banks and individuals —Westmoreland Democrat.

Happy Hoosiers.

Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feelidg arising from Kidney and liver trouble. John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place, says: Find Electric Bitters to be the best Kidney and Liver medicine, made me feel like a new man. J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: Electric Bitters 'is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strenth, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 60c. a bottle, at C. M. Parrish's Drug Store.

Who Should Bow First.

A great deal of nonsense has been talked about the question of whose place it is to bow first when a lady and gentleman meet upon the street or in any public assembly.

It is very absurd to say that a man should always wait until a lady has recognized him. In this, as in most other matters, common sense and mutual convenience are the only guides. Many ladies are near sighted; many others find great difficulty in remembering faces.

The important thing, of course, is that a man should not presume.

When two people meet who are really acquainted it is not the man who should necessarily bow first, or the lady—it is whichever of them is the first to perceive and recognize the other.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

"Painless Childbirth," our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also, how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Md.

Two Honors.

Mr. Will Keller came home on Wednesday morning crowned with honors. Out of the gradnating class of about thirty he stood at the head and further was elected valedictorian and also chosen to deliver the Marshall oration. Surely the Bellefonte boys are taking honors everywhere. We extend congratulations.

—The Venerable Mr. Thomas Beaver died at his home in Danville on Tuesday evening in the 77th year of his age. Mr. Beaver was a great philanthropist and a good business man. He was a millionaire and gave hundreds of dollars away for charitable institutions and work. The world would be far better if there were more Thomas Beaver's in it.

THEY GOT IN THEIR WORK.

THE SHARPERS WITH WALLACE'S SHOW CAUGHT A FEW SMARTIES.

It now seems beyond contradiction that there was a regular gang of swindlers, in every shape and form, connected with Wallace's circus which was exhibited here on Tuesday, and a number of Centre county people will very readily testify to this fact. It has slowly leaked out that quite a number were swindled out of some money among which most prominently are the following cases:

Constable William Krape, of Benner township, to the tune of $350; a Hungarian out of $110; a man from Tyrone $40; and another of $50 and another of $45, while there were a whole host of persons swindled out of smaller sums. The game was played openly in the evening and the men bit like catfish and like catfish they were caught. The game worked on Krape was the same old game of going into business and needing so much money and Krape had a note discounted at bank and furnishes the money when the scoundrels as well as the business vanishes. There should be no pity for men who allow themselves to be swindled so easily as that. The other losers were caught on the three card monte and shell game.

Krape came into Bellefonte early on Wednesday morning and told District Attorney Meyer about his loss and asked his aid. Meyer telephoned Capt. Clark, of Philipsburg, who hunted all day for the man but could not find him. He then went to Mr. Wallace, the proprietor of the show, who offered to compromise for a certain per cent. of the losses. This Mr. Meyer refused to do, telephoning Capt. Clark that unless he would pay the full amount of all losses he would arrest him in Tyrone to-day. This was the latest at this writing.

But the best joke of all is the way the ring leader of the sharpers drew the wool over the eyes of Bellefonte's entire board of officials by him pretending to be a detective following up the show for the purpose of catching the sharpers. This way he got into the confidence of everybody, it is said, assisted in stopping a couple minor games and then entertained the crowd while the sharpers fleeced the people.

Deceased.

Mrs. Sarah G. Downing, our esteemed friend, departed this life at her residence at Downingtown, at 6 P. M. Saturday May 9.

Deceased had been an invalid for nearly two years, but her sudden demise was a sad shock to her sons and daughters eight of whom with her brother, James Mount, followed her to her last resting place, on Wednesday, May 13th. Mrs. Downing was the mother of Mrs. J. D. Valentine, of this place.

Millheim Murmurings

Now is the time to remove the catepillars and their nests from your fruit trees. The best way to do this is with a huge torch, burning them.

Mr. Deibler, of Philadelphia, has been visiting his brother, Mr. Harry Deibler, of this place.

Mr. Kline Musser, of Aaronsburg, tarried in Millheim a few days last week.

Mr. Cyrus Brumgard has the wall of the new building he intends erecting all up and everything is ready for the carpenters.

Scrofula and Salt Rheum

The heritage of which every human being is almost as certain as he is of air, sunlight and breath, is Scrofula Humor. Far away in the realms of history we catch glimpses of what a curse upon the people this all-prevalent contamination made itself. Poor diet and insufficient food, ill ventilation, filth and dampness, all assist the slumbering germs of Scrofula to overpower the vitality of the body and run riot in the system. The blood in its process of renewing the waste cannot expel any inherited taint of weakness or impurity. It can only be removed by the action of some purifying medicinal agency, which assisted by nutritious food, well digested and assimilated into blood, gradually insures the possession of sound health. Such a renovating remedy has Brown's Sarsaparilla proved itself to be, whether this taint has given rise to Scrofula, Salt Rheum Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Liver Complaints, or Kidney Diseases, which are the most frequent manifestations of its presence, all have readily yielded to the clean and purifying action of Brown's Sarsaparilla.

Cured by the Use of

A VERY BAD CASE of Scrofula, cured by Brown's Sarsaparilla, has excited the people living in and around the town of Lee, Me. Mr. Averill writes us as follows: "My son has now taken fourteen bottles of Brown's Sarsaparilla, and I am sure it has completed a cure. His case was the worst I ever saw. His face was covered with what seemed to be scales or scabs, and the itching was so intolerable that he tossed about in agony through many a sleepless night. He commenced some weeks ago to use Brown's Sarsaparilla in connection with the salve you sent to allay the irritation, and now he is so far recovered that we consider his complete cure as certain." Mr. J. W. Burke of Lee, chairman of Penobscot Co. Commissioners, says: "It is wonderful what Brown's Sarsaparilla has done for young Averill." In this case Brown's Sarsaparilla threw open the bowels and pores of the skin, at the same time entering the blood, beginning a vigorous warfare on the impure matter found there, and which was a constant source of supply for the scrofulous humor on the outside. In time this was expelled from the system, and only pure matter entered the blood.

SALT RHEUM. On Davis Street, in Bangor, resides Mrs. Edwin Wiley, whose daughter was badly afflicted with Salt Rheum. At times her face and hands would be covered with blotches. So intense was the itching sensation that applications of salt were made to destroy it. For a long time no relief could be obtained. One day some one suggested Brown's Sarsaparilla, and a bottle was purchased. Later Mrs. Wiley brought her daughter to the establishment of Mr. Ara Warren where Brown's Sarsaparilla is made. The face that a short time previous was covered with blotches, burning and itching, presented as fair and smooth an appearance as that of any young lady. LESS THAN ONE BOTTLE WAS USED.

Girls who use SAPOLIO are QUICKLY MARRIED

SAPOLIO is one of the best known city luxuries and each time a cake is used an hour is saved. On floors, tables and painted work it acts like a charm. For scouring pots, pans and metals it has no equal. If your store-keeper does not keep it you should insist upon his doing so, as it always gives satisfaction and its immense sale all over the United States makes it an almost necessary article to any well supplied store. Everything shines after its use, and even the children delight in using it in their attempts to help around the house.

GRADUATION DAY.

Three Young Ladies and Three Young Men Graduate From the

BELLEFONTE HIGH SCHOOL

THE OPERA HOUSE CROWDED TO WITNESS THE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

Garman's opera house was never so crowded as it was on Thursday afternoon by those eager to witness the commencement exercises of the graduating class of the Bellefonte High School. Almost every seat was occupied when the NEWS reporter entered though it yet lacked almost one-half hour of the time for opening. An orchestra composed of the *M*isses Moore, the Misses Lukenbach, Mr. Royer and several others, under the direction of *M*r. A. Lukenbach, furnished the music for the occasion, and without flattery can it be said they played charmingly well. It was just three o'clock when the bell tinkled and the orchestra struck up an overture. Shortly after the curtain went up and the scene presented on the stage was one of bewilderingly animated loveliness There, seated in semi-circles, were the members of the High School, the young ladies, most all of whom were arrayed in spotless white, being seated in front and the young gentlemen in the rear. The stage setting being fine the whole thing presented the appearance of an exceedingly handsome picture.

The graduating class of '91 numbered six, as follows: *M*isses Rosa Levy, Jennie Twitmire and Edith Austin, and *M*essrs. Geo. N. Brandon, Kline Woodring and Charles Garner, *M*iss Rosa Levy took first honor and was chosen valedictorian and *M*iss Twitmire took second honor and was chosen to deliver the salutatory.

The exercises were opened with an invocation by Rev. W. A. Houck, after which the school marched to the footlights and sang a "Greeting song," *M*iss Jennie Twitmire then delivered the salutatory and essay entitled, "The Phoenix," which was followed by Kline Woodring with his oration "Poland and her Heroes," and then the orchestra favored the audience with some more music. "Night brings out the stars" was the subject of Miss Edith Austin's essay after the reading of which Charles Garner orated on "Immigration and Labor." *M*ore music and then *M*iss Levy read her essay "Not finished but bugun," and delivered the valedictory, taking an affectionate leave of her school-mates and her teachers. The school then sang the "Vacation Song," after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. D. M. Wolf. The oration of Mr. Geo. N. Brandon was necessarily omitted from the programme, because of illness of the speaker.

All the young ladies of the graduating class were arrayed in white dresses without sleeves, and white kid gloves that reached to the shoulder. White slippers on their feet and a large corsage bouquet of yellow roses completed their toilettes. They all looked very charming. The young men were arrayed in neat fitting suits and looked very dignified. All of the speakers did exceptionally well and were heartily applauded.

EVENING SESSION

The evening session opened promptly at 8 o'clock with music by the orchestra after which the school sang a "Welcome" song. President of the school board D. F. Fortney, Esq. then introduced General D. H. Hastings as the speaker of the evening. The General in a well-worded address told the many advantages of a thorough education in every walk of life, and dwelt specially on the importance of it under our republican form of government. Comparisons were drawn and pictures presented in the General's plain and most vivid style and in every instance might and right were on the side of education. The speaker closed his address with a few personal reminiscences of his carreer as principal of the High School almost twenty five years ago, finally ending with a few words of well timed advice to the graduating class. He took his seat midst thunderous applause.

The school then sang a "Patriotic Song," after which President D. F. Fortney, Esq., made his appearance to make an address and present the diplomas. Before proceeding to do this, however, he made presentation, to the respective students, of the following presents:

The W. F. Reynold's rhetorical prize—$15 in gold—and which was some time ago won by *M*iss Ella Twitmire, was presented to that young lady.

Board of Education prize—$15 in gold—awarded to Charles Garner for ranking best in general excellence in the whole course of study, both for conduct and progress.

Judge A. O. Furst prize—$10 in gold—awarded to George N. Brandon for passing best examination in Thorpe's Civil Government and History of the United States.

C. M. Bower prize—$10 in gold—awarded to *M*iss Rosa Levy for passing best examination in business arithmetic, algebra and geometry required to enter college.

Faculty prize—a valuable book—awarded to *M*iss Edith Austin for the best work in natural science.

Du Chaillu's "Land of the *M*idnight Sun," in two volumes, were also presented to Charles Garner as a tribute to him from the colored people of Bellefonte who desired to thus show their appreciation of his good work.

To Kline Woodring the "History of Ferdinand and Isabella," in two volumes, for successfully working his way through High School under adverse circumstances.

Mr. Fortney then proceeded with his address and because it relates so importantly to school work, we publish it in full, as follows:

FRIENDS AND FELLOW CITIZENS:

I will detain you but a few minutes. It is but just to you and proper for the Board to give at these meetings a statement of the condition of the schools as well as the financial condition of the district.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

Notwithstanding that at the time the Brick building was completed, and since in the published statements of the Board, the cost of the building was given to the public, the Board is so frequently asked concerning the cost of the building, that I have been requested, for the information of our fellow citizens, to present a condensed statement of what the ground and building, as we now have it, cost.

For the lot, containing a little over two acres, we paid	$2,500.00
For the building, we paid	$12,2[illegible]6.97
For heating, Ventilation and Dry Closet System	$2,000.00
Furnishing	$1,013.29
Paving (including the basement and putting in all necessary gutters	$942.30
Excavating, grading and sodding	$1,684.73
Making a total of	$20,377.20

The debt contracted for the purpose of purchasing this lot and erecting this building is paid at the rate of $1,000 per year. By the end of the present school year, ten bonds of $500 each will have been paid.

If this was the only debt the Board had to contend with, the district would be in an excellent financial condition. In addition to this, however, there remains $25,000 of a bonded indebtedness contracted in 1868, together with $3,500 of indebtedness contracted at the same time, which has been kept as a floating debt from 1868, to the payment of which any surplus we may have on hand is applied, and this amount annually grows less.

Of the old debt $10,000 was refunded in 1886 at the rate of four per cent. per annum, instead of 7 per cent. which up to that time we had been paying; $15,000 of this debt was refunded in 1881 at 5 per cent. per annum. This amount we are about to refund at the rate of 4½ per cent., and have determined that, if possible, that amount shall be paid within the next ten years.

Why it was that no provision was made in 1868 when this debt was created to pay a portion each year of course we cannot tell. The present Board is not responsible for the mistake made then. It is ours to meet the responsibility as we now have it as best we can, so as not to cast too much of a burden upon our citizens and at the same time give them schools as good as can be found anywhere in the Commonwealth.

SUMMER SCHOOL OF METHODS.

The teachers in our schools are to be commended for their attendance upon the session of the School of Methods held in the city of Altoona in the summer of 1890, under the direction of Miss Patridge, aided by some of the best educators in the country. No other school could possibly have done so much, in so short a time, to break down old lines, uproot old hobbies, lift out of old ruts, destroy old methods, inspire new thoughts, excite a better purpose or awaken a nobler ambition in the minds and hearts of teachers. The new ideas and methods carried into the schools gave them such a new impulse and power, and the Board is able to say, that the school year has been one of great prosperity and progress.

Whatever may have been the doubts of either the teachers or directors about the actual results that might be derived from attendance upon such a school, they have been removed in the abundance of good that has flowed upon our schools in consequence of such a course.

TEACHERS' MEETINGS.

It is but proper in this public manner to commend the teachers for the interest manifested in their work, and the efforts made to prepare themselves for the better discharge of their duties.

In this preparation, no one agency is more efficient or productive of so much good as the Teachers' meeting which takes place every two weeks during the school term, and the carrying on of a regular course of study under the direction and instruction of the Principal and Professors of the High School.

No school can stand still. It must advance or go backward. So no teacher can intellectually stand still. If they cease to grow and gather information, to add daily to their fund of knowledge to be drawn upon while imparting instruction, the school ceases to move forward. If, on the other hand, the teachers are continually gaining knowledge, adding new truths, obtaining and imparting new ideas, the schools are all the time growing better.

The voluntary meeting on the part of our teachers is to them a school of instruction, regularly preparing them for rendering to the District more efficient work from year to year. These meetings should receive, as they have and will, from the Board every possible encouragement, and all proper assistance. This course on the part of our teachers encourages the Board, and is a justification of their course in engaging the same corps of teachers from year to year. To employ new teachers each term we could not introduce or keep in the schools the best and most advanced methods of instruction.

But where teachers can feel reasonably certain that so long as they honestly and faithfully do their duty, they will be retained by the district, it is a strong inducement for them to use every opportunity for study and improvement. To inquire into and become thoroughly familiar with and put into practice, the most advanced methods of instruction as they are tried and approved by the best educators in the world. This course has done more to make our schools what they are to-day than anything else that has been done by the authorities of the District.

PRIZES.

By the generosity of three of our citizens, prizes have been set apart to be awarded to the pupils of the High School as follows:

One of $15 to the student of the graduating class who shall be reported as ranking best for general excellence and conduct in the whole course through the school.

2nd. A prize of $15.00 to the pupil who shall excel in recitation or declamation.

3rd. A prize of 20.00 to the student who, upon the completion of the course of study shall stand the best examination in the History, Geography, Government, Resources and Industries of Pennsylvania.

This prize has not been competed for this year, because neither teachers, directors nor pupils knew anything about either of the subjects for which the prize was offered.

For these three prizes, we are indebted to the generosity of our fellow citizen, *M*ajor Wm. F. Reynolds.

I can assure him that in all his life he has never invested money that in the great settlement will have returned so much interest, or been productive of so great good.

The public schools have not, up to this time, received either the attention or consideration from generous hearted and wealthy citizens they should. Colleges and other educational institutions have been established, and others endowed or assisted by men of wealth,—I complain not of this. They have accomplished great good and through their beneficence many a noble boy has been educated and trained so that he has become a glory to our country and an honor to the generation in which he lived.

These institutions, however, only reach the very few. They must have their Presidents, Trustees or Board of Directors. Often the funds by which they were founded are expended and they fail to accomplish the very purpose for which they were founded. These things could never happen with funds set apart for the use of a public school district, or expended in the construction of a building for public school purposes. Behind such a donation, or buildings so erected, you have the District, the existence of which is made perpetual by law; you have the Board of Directors under the law elected by the people, who by authority of the law levy and collect taxes from the public for the proper care of the building, and to carry out the purpose for which it was constructed forever.

Over and above this, however, would stand the broad fact that by this means more of the absolutely needy, but worthy, ambitious, energetic, high minded and noble hearted boys and girls would be reached, aided in their struggle in life and lifted up and fitted for the higher and nobler duties of citizenship in our great Republic.

This subject is worthy of the consideration of the best citizens of any community.

GROUNDS.

We are doing what we can to put the grounds belonging to the District in better condition. Until the lot surrounding the stone building is properly filled, it will be impossible to make it look very much better. Every day this hollow becomes less and we hope that by another year we shall have the work completed. Then we would like to arrange the lot so that it would be an ornament to the town and a joy to all the people. We would like to take away the fence, take down the stone wall along Linn street, make good walks across it, put some seats under the trees and let everybody in the community enjoy it as a place of shade and rest in the open air. But the cows of our community, their rights being superior to those of our citizens will of course prevent all this, and instead of arranging the lot to be enjoyed by our people, we must build a stout, strong fence all around it, costing $400 or $500 to keep both cattle and people out.

On the Bishop street school lot, we have planted quite a number of rare and beautiful trees. With the exception of the Sugar Maples along the street and the east side of the lot, no two trees planted on the ground are of the same variety.

To the Members of the Class:

You stand here to-night, as expressed in the motto of the class, "NOT FINISHED, BUT BEGUN."

In the school in which you have just completed the course of study, you have had an excellent beginning. You are well started on your way and what you shall do or become in the future depends very much on yourselves.

The tree which rears its top high into the heavens, spreads its branches to the four quarters of the earth and sends its roots to feed upon a hundred secret springs, was never grown in a box, nor did it reach its proud position and magnificent proportions in a day or even in a year, but each day and each year added something to its growth and strength, until at last it became a thing of beauty and a joy for the lover of nature to look upon. So the men and women who have done much to teach and elevate mankind, to civilize the world, create its thought, control its newspapers, build its railroads, who have invented and discovered and planned, until the very lightning is made our servant and adds to our comfort and happiness, have not grown in a day or counted themselves finished, when they left school. But by persistent application and long continued effort they conquered poverty, ignored discouragement, worked patiently through years of obscurity, until at last they stand out the successful, the uncrowned kings and queens of the world.

As a living illustration, take our fellow citizen who has this evening addressed you. But a few years ago, a boy in the public schools in the country a few miles down the valley, a little later a teacher, then a lawyer, discharging all the time the duties of a good citizen. At the same time applying himself assiduously to the acquiring of knowledge and information, filling responsible public stations to the satisfaction of all the people, he justly receives and occupies a larger share of the public attention than any other man, in private life, in our great Commonwealth.

How came he to occupy this great station? By hard work, close application, persistent effort, faithful and heroic discharge of every duty.

Some of you at least I know desire a course of study in higher institutions of learning. Whether you shall be able to obtain such a course of study depends entirely on yourselves. Do you want it hard enough? If you do, you can accomplish your purpose. Earnest resolve and perseverance are rare qualities, but properly manifested and exercised, they win.

With a first-class college at our very door offering to the youth of our town and county every opportunity to obtain a complete collegiate education, accompanied by practical work and actual illustration, there should be no difficulty, beginning just where you quit—in any of you obtaining a higher course of study.

The diploma of scholarship was then presented to the class after which "The Angelus" was sung by a choir of five young ladies and the audience was dismissed with the benediction by Rev. D. M. Wolf.

Through the Weary Hours

Of many a night, made doubly long by its protracted agony, the rheumatic sufferer tosses to and fro on his sleepless couch, vainly praying for that rest which only comes by fits and starts. His malady is one which ordinary medicines too often fail to relieve, but there is ample evidence to prove that the efficient blood depurent, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, affords the rheumatic a reliable means of relief. Check the malady in its incipient stages, when the first premonitary twinges come on, with this agreeable medicine, and avoid years of torture. Whatever be the rational of active influence of the Bitters upon this malady, certain it is that no evidence relating to its effect is more direct and positive than that which relates to its action in case of rheumatism. Like all sterling remedies, however, it deserves a protracted, systematic trial, and should not be abandoned because not at once remedial. It is equally efficacious in dyspepsia, indigestion and kindred diseases.

Another Pyrotechnic Display.

All Central Pennsylvania is interested over the announcement that Harrisburg will again be the scene of another of James Pain & Son's wonderful pyrotechnic exhibitions. Commencing Tuesday June 16, the Seige of Sebastopol will be presented for ten nights, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The Seige of Sebastopol is probably one of the grandest entertainments that is possible to devise for the amusement as well as education of the public. Its strangely realistic scenes of war, both on land and water, enacted by hundreds of highly-drilled soldiers, sailors and marines, together with the thunder of fierce bombardments and the shattering of huge forts, will make a sight inspiring in the extreme.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

—If Bellefonte can have four companies of infantry, the Sheridan troop and the Colonel of the Fifth Regiment, with his staff, here on the fourth of July, it will add greatly to the parade, etc.

—The Lutheran congregation expect to commence laying brick on their new church about the first of July. They expect to get the building under roof this summer and complete it next spring.

—The DAILY NEWS gave the best account of the graduation day exercises of any paper in Centre county, and everybody knows it. If you want to get all the news in detail subscribe for this paper.

—The Valentine Iron Company will begin operation at their furnace and mills in this place just as soon as they can get a guarantee of coke sufficient to keep them going. We trust the time may be near at hand.

—From the Philadelphia papers of Thursday we learn that Gen. B. Frank Fisher will probably be appointed receiver of the defunct Spring Garden National bank, of that city. A better choice could not be made.

—A gypsy was arrested at Coburn Monday evening and brought to Bellefonte on Tuesday and jailed for stealing a horse and buggy from Johnathan Schenck, at Howard, on last Saturday. The horse and buggy were recovered.

—If you fail to get your paper promptly notify the office and the matter will be investigated, the reason discovered and the delay remedied. Unless notified we will not know of any neglect of duty on the part of the carriers.

—The ladies of the Milesburg Baptist church will serve refreshments on next Saturday, Decoration Day, on the lawn in front of the church. This will be a good opportunity for everybody to refresh themselves and at the same time assist the church.

—On Sunday a number of Milesburg young men were seen this side of McCoy & Linn's works sitting near the railroad playing cards. This kind of pastime may be all right for week days but it's not right for Sundays and should not be tolerated.

—Here you have it in a nut shell: "There is no safeguard like a newspaper. Nothing can do more to keep up a town and help business. The town that supports a good local paper is the town that is successfully growing, and the newspapers that keeps up with and a little in advance of the town's growth is the one that will live long and prosper."

—Do you catch trout on outlines or race horses on Bishop street? If you have done either you had better go visiting out of town for the authorities are getting their eyes open and boys and men are being nabbed right along.

—Why don't some of the churches or societies hold a strawberry festival? They could have strawberry shortcake, strawberries and cream, strawberry ice cream, strawberry cake, strawberry bonnet, crushed strawberry dresses and strawberries.

—Dr. A. Hibler informs us that he will this year have the largest crop of strawberries he has ever had, and the fruit will be the finest. Everybody knows the reputation of the Doctor for raising berries and when he says he will have a good crop he will have it.

—The authorities give notice that hereafter racing on Bishop street must stop. There has been too much of that kind of business indulged in on that thoroughfare for some time past, at the risk of life, but now it must end and all persons wishing to avoid arrest had better take notice —Did you see something "loud" at the passenger depot Tuesday? If you didn't just walk over and look at the coat worn by the operator. It is that loud a person can't hear the trains coming in. Agent Hutchinson says a subscription will be taken up this evening to buy him a cap to match.

—Although Mr. Mitchell Gardner entered on his duties Monday as book keeper of the Valentine Iron Company, yet he will not give up the insurance business. His evenings will be spent in his office writing up policies and during the day a competent clerk will take charge of the business.

—The rumor on the streets that J. W. Gephart, Esq., had withdrawn from the law firm of Beaver, Gephart & Dale and would hereafter devote his entire time and attention to the interests of the new Valentine Iron Company, has no foundation whatever. Mr. Gephart will continue his law practice as usual.

—On Thursday Mr. J. C. Meyer received $325 from the proprietor of Wallace's show in payment of the losses entailed by Mr. Krape and the Hungarian, through the instrumentality of sharpers with the show here last Tuesday. Mr. Meyer will not accept the above amount as a settlement but will have the parties arrested in Huntingdon to-day.

—On Monday evening Mr. George Mallory, who for some time past has been engaged as a blacksmith in the establishment of J. S. Waite & Co., on Water street, severed his connection with that firm and this morning opened up business on his own hook right across the street from Waite's, in the old shop appurtenant to the Heisler Marble works. George is a good smith and deserves lots of patronage.

—Bellefonte is full of lover's walks. Since the trees have put on their summer dress of foliage, most every pavement in town is secluded. Owing to the way the arc lights are suspended no light whatever is cast on the pavement one hundred feet away from the lamp. This is very nice for young folks who enjoy the semi darkness but it is a little tough on the older people who have hard work to see even when there is good light. Turn on more light.

—Mr. F. P. Green has just lately put in operation the handsomest soda fountain in Bellefonte. It is extraordinarily large and very handsomely carved and finished. Over the top of it hangs a large bevel plate glass mirror in front of which suspeuds a varigated color light. Surrounding the fountain Mr. Green has put in fine new counters crowned with the best Holstein marble. If you want a cool, refreshing drink of soda you can get it at Green's.

JOHN WILSON AGAIN.

A MAN IN MADISON, WIS., THINKS HE HAS HIM.

About five months now have passed since John Wilson, the man who killed Harry Waterhouse, escaped from the Bellefonte jail and, judging from appearances, few there are in Bellefonte who now give any thought in regard to his recovery. Not so, however, with persons other places. His escape from the jail and his description were so widely published that few officials are not informed about him and are on the lookout for men of his size and measure.

Our readers are informed about how often persons have been arrested and brought here, or an officer sent to see them, for identification, in the belief that they were the missing man, but each and every time it turned out that the arrested one was some other man. But now there is another man who thinks he has Wilson. This time it is the turnkey of the jail in Madison, Wisconsin. Mr. Meyer on Friday received a letter from there stating that a man who answers the printed description, in every way, height, weight, color of hair, tattoo marks, etc., is serving a three months' term in the jail at that place. Mr. Meyer sent as minute a description of the man as it was possible to send and if it answers the description of the man there an effort will be made to take his picture and send it in here for identification.

A Sad Accident

On Thursday forenoon a little child of Edward Huffman, on Logan street, met with a very serious accident. The child was running through the kitchen playing and Mrs. Huffman was scrubbing. She had just poured some hot water into a pail preparatory to scrubbing the porch and, setting the pail down, turned to go to the stove. She had no sooner turned her back than the little one noticed the pail and running toward it plunged his right arm into the water up to the elbow. Fortunately the water was not boiling or a yet more serious injury might have occurred. Dr. H. K. Hoy was summoned and at once applied a lotion which silenced the screams of the little sufferer. The arm is quite badly bured but it is thought that no flesh will drop off. The child went into a stupor after the pain ceased from which it could not be aroused and for a time it was thought he might not recover, but about five o'clock they succeeded in arousing him to the great delight of his parents and watchers. Little Clyde is an unusually bright child and his serious mishap was a great shock to his parents.

The Very Highest.

Mr. Will Keller's graduation from Franklin and Marshall College is the very highest in point of honor that ever occurred at that College. There are four honors in the class, the first being the Marshall oration, next the Franklin oration, third the Class oration and fourth valedictorian. The highest graduate that ever went out of that college in the past was Hon. W. U. Hensel, and he took second honor, or the Franklin oration, and was chosen valedictorian. This was the best record up to the present and the only former occasion on which one student succeeded in winning two honors. But as will be seen from the above Will forges to the front and takes first honor as well as last. The young gentleman is deserving of heartiest congratulation and has reason to feel proud of his achievement, while Bellefonte can rejoice in the fact that a Bellefonte young man has beaten the record at one of the best colleges in the land.

—A Boston policeman arrested a man for kissing his wife on the street. That is, the man kissed his own wife on the street. Not the policeman's own wife, but the man's own wife. The good wife looking particularly pretty at the time and her husband was bidding her good bye. And he put his arm around her neck and kissed her. And then the policeman arrested the man on a charge of disorderly conduct. This sort of thing must be confined to Boston. If it ever spreads, none of us will be safe.

A Census Directory of Centre County

Mr. Guyer Mattern, of Benore, well known to the majority of our people, is in town, in the interest of a "Census Directory of Centre County," which is designed to give the population of the county, the names and ages of all citizens, by townships and borough, with additional marginal blanks for political character, blank pages to record changes of residence, births, deaths, change of political belief and other subjects of reference. The book will contain over four hundred pages, and the value of the work is at once apparent, especially to all business men. We shall have more to say concerning it later on, but hope Mr. Mattern will receive every encouragement at the hands of our people.—Philipsburg Journal.

They're After Him

On Friday Wallace's show was in Tyrone and there were no less than four detectives after them. One was a man from Punxsutawney. Capt. Mullen, of this place, Capt. Clark, of Philipsburg, and an officer from Clearfield, all with claims of men who had been swindled. But the proprietor is growing desperate. During the entire day he did not once put in an appearance, and there really did not seem to be anybody in charge, the show seemed to be running itself. Of course where no proprietor could be found no arrests could be made. The show will be in Lewistown to-day and it is likely that the officers will follow them there.

A New Departure

Mr. John Anderson is one the most enterprising business men in this part of the state. Not satisfied with keeping a first-class restaurant, billiard parlor, etc., he will on Monday organize a new departure in the shape of a number one ice cream saloon in his room next this office. It is the intention of Mr. Anderson to keep ice cream constantly on hand and to serve it in the very best style possible. As to the quality of the cream, everybody who knows Mr. Anderson will know that it will be the best that can be made so don't forget that on and after Monday you can get ice cream at Anderson's.

A Young Man's Fancy

Large allowance is to be made for the overweening assertion of the poet that "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." It certainly is not true of the malarial young man, whose fancy, if he has any is of the dull and heavy variety. The malarial young man marches around as the captive of General Debility The readiest and most obvious means of escape are afforded by S. S. S. which, without any flourish, routs General Debility and his malarial allies. What is true of the young man is true of the young lady, and the whole host of sufierers. S, S. S. is a specific for malaria.

Death of Samuel Flack.

On Friday Mrs. James Schofield went to Philipsburg to visit her father, Mr. Samuel Flack and, instead of being an occasion of joy it has turned out one of extreme sorrow, as her father died the same evening about ten o'clock. Mr. Schofeld, who gave us the information, did not know the cause of his death. Mr. Flack was aged about 65 years. He was one of Philipsburg's prominent merchants. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon. Mr. Schofield will likely depart this evening for Philipsburg.

At no other season of the year are coughs and colds so prevalent as at the present time, and every sufferer should check his complaint at once by the use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and thus prevent it from leading to serious lung affections.

Personal Pencilings.

Judge A. O. Furst is in Philadelphia.

Mr. Will Brew is home on a week's visit to his parents in this place.

Mrs. James Schofield and little daughter are visiting friends in Philipsburg.

Mr and Mrs. Geo. Jones, of Oscola Mills, are visiting friends in Bellefonte.

Ex-Treasurer Cyrus Goss came over from Boalsburg Friday morning to spend the day in Bellefonte.

Mrs. M. W. Cowdrick is entertaining her friends, Mrs. John Thomas and Mrs. Geo. Davis, of Williamsport.

Recorder Galor Morrison spent Sunday at his old home in Port Matilda. We have not been able to learn whether it was his best girl that was the attraction or whether some fellow up there had a lot of fox scalps he wanted the money for.

Met With an Injury.

On Friday evening Dr. Glenn, of Altoona, but formerly resided in Snow Shoe, met with an accident at the Mountain House, Snow Shoe, which will confine him to the house for some time. The Doctor has been in Snow Shoe for a week or more for the benefit of his health and on the evening mentioned he was just in the act of going in the hotel when someone called him by name. The doctor hastily turned and in doing so slipped and fell breaking his limb. What makes the accident so much worse is that the Doctor already was a cripple and it was the good limb that suffered this time. We hope he may speedily recover.
